

Community Engagement and Service

Our graduates will demonstrate knowledge of community factors that influence individual, community and public health, and will gain both perspective and experience through service-learning activities within local or global community settings.

FSM graduates will:

1. Demonstrate knowledge about behavioral, socioeconomic, and cultural dynamics that can affect individual, community health, and public health.	Equity
2. Assess challenges to providing high quality health care for members of vulnerable groups and articulate the role of physicians in working to eliminate barriers.	Advocacy
3. Advocate for individual patients and communities with limited access to quality healthcare.
4. Promote the health and welfare of a community group by eliciting needs and assets, and collaborating with community partners to deliver sustainable, quality service.	Community Health
