“I have always respected and admired Dr. Jampol’s dedication to and passion for his clinical work and research. I hope that this professorship will support and inspire others to follow in his footsteps.”

—Cyrus Tang

On June 22, 2017, Amani A. Fawzi, MD, was formally invested as the Cyrus Tang and Lee Jampol Professor of Ophthalmology at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine. The Cyrus Tang and Lee Jampol Professorship was established by the Cyrus Chung Ying Tang Foundation to recognize and honor the contributions of longtime Feinberg faculty member Lee M. Jampol, MD, who is a renowned investigator and expert in diseases of the retina and age-related macular degeneration.

"Mr. Tang is an accomplished businessman and philanthropist, and Dr. Jampol is a skilled and compassionate ophthalmologist. I am the innocent bystander in this amazing doctor-patient relationship that carries an impressive legacy. I pledge to open doors for and inspire my students, and I will continue to strive to help my patients, just like Dr. Jampol helped Mr. Tang."

James Koster, ’74 MBA

“After losing my wife to Familial ALS, I became passionate about supporting research toward finding a cure—no matter where it came from. I chose to invest in Northwestern for its quality research, outstanding track record, and, most importantly, the extraordinary commitment of its people. Amazing progress is being made at the Feinberg School of Medicine, and I need to be part of that effort in making a difference.”

—James Koster

Lifetime Giving Society

$35,000–$999,999 IN CUMULATIVE LIFETIME GIVING

Your steadfast commitment helps us to excel in medical education, research, and community engagement.
Your financial assistance is what made my dream of coming to medical school a reality. Without this generous scholarship, I might not have been able to attend Feinberg. Focusing on school without having as much financial stress has been such a huge help to my academic performance.

Women in Medicine Tea at the Drake Hotel during Alumni Weekend 2017.

Deceased
This year, 1991 alumna Farah Hashemi Fakouri, MD, (second from left with her fellow alumni) made a gift to Northwestern in tribute to her late father, Mahmood Hashemi, MD, as well as the Pars Cultural Society that he founded to promote Persian culture and language. Dr. Hashemi practiced at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, Illinois, where he taught Northwestern medical students.

"As doctors, it is incumbent that we ensure others follow us free of the enormous burden of debt that today’s students face. Giving to the Lynda Singshinsuk Class of 1991 Scholarship Fund in my father’s name honors both his dedication as a surgeon and teacher, as well as the spirit of my fellow classmate who was a good friend to us all. Lynda would have been the type of physician that would have made my father proud."

—Farah Hashemi Fakouri, MD

"When you support our medical students, you ensure the future of patient care and medical discovery for generations to come. As a medical aluma, I join my many generous classmates in personally supporting scholarships through the Lynda Singshinsuk Class of 1991 Scholarship."

—Diane B. Wayne, ’91 MD, Dr. John Sherman Appleman Professor of Medicine and Medical Education, Vice Dean for Education

In Fiscal Year 2017, Davis Society donors gave to 300 priorities across the medical school. You supported:
- 65 different scholarship funds;
- Over 130 research funds, fueling discovery in diseases ranging from lymphoma to Alzheimer’s disease;
- Areas as varied as the Global Health Initiative, the Physical Therapy Program Fund, the Skin Cancer Institute, and the Medical School Annual Fund.

Your Support at Work.

Javier Guevara, ’12 MD

“I feel a great deal of gratitude not only for my Feinberg education but also for the encouragement I received from mentors. It’s imperative we promote diversity in medicine, which is why I chose to support the Office of Diversity and Inclusion. Working with Hispanic patients, I see the huge need for doctors in this community. If I can help in any way, even a little bit with my gift, then why not?”

—Javier Guevara, MD

Jane Curry, ’64, ’65 MS

“The scholarship bequest to the Prosthetics and Orthotics Center comes directly from my role as an educational model. Working as a model with faculty, fellow amputees, and especially students gives me not only a new and invaluable perspective on this important profession, but on myself as well, which is very cool. Scholarships help bring students to NUPOC. It’s my ‘thank you’ to them for the gift of purpose they give to me.”

—Jane Curry
As someone who has lived most of his life in medically underserved areas with parents who work in medicine, I have always had an interest in helping my community in any way I can. I just happened to find that I also love medicine and the science underlying current medical innovations. But, paying full tuition to Northwestern or any other medical school would have represented an extreme financial hardship. Your generosity has given me the opportunity to explore many different specialties without having to consider how to pay for my tuition debt.

Galal Galal, Class of 2020
Recipient of the Ginny Darakjian Scholarship
Paul Hildreth, ‘81

“My PT education allowed me to have an enjoyable and satisfying career, so serving on the board has been my way of giving back. It’s been gratifying to help reconnect alumni with the school, honor those who’ve done outstanding work, and raise scholarship monies to support students. While volunteering may be about giving, you really get so much more in return. I’ve had a fun time.”

—Paul Hildreth
