I. PURPOSE
Describe procedures to follow at all clinical affiliates if a student is exposed to needle stick and/or blood-borne or body fluid pathogen.

II. PERSONS AFFECTED:
Medical students, clerkship directors, faculty supervisors

III. POLICY STATEMENT
Although attention to proper procedures can reduce risk, health care professionals (including students) are at risk for exposure to infectious agents due to the nature of their professional education. All students will be instructed on risks, prevention and treatment of exposures to blood and/or body fluids, and other exposures prior to patient contact. Universal precautions should be adopted wherever a student may have a risk of exposure.

Students who are stuck with a contaminated needle, or otherwise subjected to contamination by bodily fluids from a patient, have a small but very real risk of acquiring a serious infection from the host. All incidents of blood or body fluid exposure must be reported. Students will be immediately excused from any curricular activity. Students should follow the following procedures:

- Wash needle sticks and cuts with soap and water;
- Flush splashes to the nose, mouth, or skin with water;
- Irrigate eyes with clean water, saline, or sterile irritants.
- Inform supervisor of exposure immediately;
- Request assistance from other staff members as needed;
- Obtain Source Patient name and medical record number, if known for purpose of exposure management.

Students exposed to COVID-19 should follow the steps outlined here: https://www.feinberg.northwestern.edu/md-education/current-students/covid-19-resources/index.html

While the exact reporting procedure varies from hospital to hospital, the first step is to contact the appropriate person immediately. This individual deals with such incidents on a routine basis. He or she can order testing of the patient and you, provide counseling regarding the need and desirability of further testing or treatment, and answer any questions you may have.

Students will receive this education at new student orientation and again before starting clerkships.
