Description

The Buehler Center for Health Policy and Economics invites applications from qualified candidates to fill a research faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor. Salary is competitive and commensurate with rank. The successful candidate is expected to have, or to demonstrate the potential for, an independent program of research focused on behavioral health sciences, social sciences or public health, with research foci in one or more of the following areas:

- Health Policy
- Public Health
- Medicine
- Mental health and substance misuse
- Implementation science and behavioral health
- Veterans' behavioral health
- Trauma-informed care
- Behavioral health issues within the adult and/or juvenile justice systems
- Forensic mental health services
- Underrepresented populations and disparities in behavioral health services
- Global Health
- Aging

Applicants with demonstrated contributions to professional outreach related to behavioral or public health who are interested in developing collaborative research partnerships with University colleagues, as well as local, state and federal agencies are encouraged to apply.

Requirements

Minimum Qualifications: The successful candidate must hold a terminal degree (e.g., PhD, EdD, DrPH, DSW) by the time of faculty appointment and have a demonstrated record of published research in areas consistent with the mission of the Buehler Center.

Preferred Qualifications

These include a strong publication record related to the foci of this position, demonstrated success or potential in obtaining external funding related to behavioral health and public health and policy research, excellent communication and interpersonal skills, and a record of collaborative work with both academic and community partners. A strong background in research methods (qualitative or quantitative) and/or statistics is desired.

The start date is negotiable and the position will remain open until filled.
